

There are three ways to order plants. From the grower for direct pickup, as a group through the Biodelicious website and through retailers.

❖ The three ways to Order plants

- Directly from the Amish growers.
 - Because these Amish families do not want any of their information on the internet we are serving as their interface with the Web based world. If you would like to send your order directly to them and pick it up from them, you would need to call me, Dennis Limon 615-797-9641. I cannot send this info in an email.
- Through the Biodelicious website.
 - The orders for direct pickup and group orders can go through the website. These orders are sent to the Amish growers. We help facilitate the ordering and delivering. Payment of cash or check is to the Amish growers at time of pickup.
 - Retail orders can also come through the website. These are given over to a participating retailer. They will add your order to their monthly order. You will pick the plants up at the retailer store and pay them.
- Participating Retailers.
 - You can go to your local retailers. They may already have what you want at the store. You can also order from the Plant List.
